

PRISONER IS HOLDING UPUnder the Alienist Ordeal, Declared His Attorney To-day

IS NOT PUT IN DEATH CELL

It Is Thought That Reports of All the Insanity Experts Will Be in the Hands of the Governor Before Executive Council Meets on Wednesday.

Boston, May 13.—"Richeson seems to be standing up well under the alienist ordeal," said his attorney, William A. Morse, after his morning call on the man who is condemned to die next week for the murder of Avis Linnell.

"I know nothing of the course of the results or conclusions of the insanity experts appointed by Governor Foss," continued Mr. Morse, "but it looks as if all the reports will be in the hands of Governor Foss before the regular meeting of the executive council Wednesday."

Sheriff Quinn announced to-day that Richeson would not be removed to the state prison until after Wednesday. Yesterday was doubtless the most critical day for the prisoner since he received his death sentence early in January. From the time Richeson confessed to the murder of the little Conservatory of Music pupil, a former sweetheart, who stood in the way of his marriage to the wealthy Miss Violet Edmonds of Brookline, his counsel have been working to secure a finding that the prisoner was mentally irresponsible for his act. They were gratified when on Friday last Governor Foss, who is avowedly averse to the death penalty, named three prominent alienists to make an impartial report for his guidance in the matter of submitting Richeson's petition to the council for clemency.

Sheriff Quinn did not attend the examination but posted his guards outside the room, with one attendant inside. The work of examination continued uninterruptedly from 9:30 until 12:30 p. m. At that time Richeson was taken back to his cell, where he partook heartily of special food which is daily sent in to him from a restaurant outside.

Richeson was apparently bearing himself well and showed no fatigue. About 2 o'clock he was taken again to the sheriff's house and the alienists again took up their work. The second session lasted until 5:30 o'clock. At its conclusion, Richeson was returned to his cell, his carriage as he marched across the jail yard being apparently one of hopefulness, if not even confidence.

Witter was married, but had no children. His father and brother, George, 29 Fruit street, survive him.

It is reported here that financial troubles were the cause of the suicide, but this could not be confirmed. Witter was known as a very rich man. His father is president of the Five Cents Saving bank of this city and also president of the Merchant & Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance company.

LOSS ESTIMATED
TO BE OVER $115,000Boston & Maine Roundhouse at Manchester, N. H., Was Damaged by Fire Yesterday Afternoon—Many Engines Damaged.

Manchester, N. H., May 13.—The Boston & Maine roundhouse here was damaged by fire yesterday afternoon, and nine or ten locomotives in it were ruined. Estimates of the loss are between $115,000 and $130,000.

The blaze started about one of the engines at 4:15 o'clock and spread like wildfire through the oil-soaked building. Trainers say it probably caught from sparks from engine No. 214, which had just been fired up and on which, it is said, employees were using the "blower."

After the first signs of fire, boiler-makers and wipers managed to get out six of the big machines. These were a spare passenger engine, the Pittsfield freight engine, a shifter, a general freight engine, the North Wear freight engine and a Portsmouth freight engine.

Of the 13 engines in the house, it is believed that three can be used at once.

POLISHING MILL DESTROYED.

Thomas Mitchell's Plant at Quincy Was Burned Yesterday Morning.

Quincy, Mass., May 13.—Good work on the part of the central station and West Quincy firemen prevented serious losses in the granite-polishing and granite-cutting industries along Center street early Sunday morning. The fire destroyed the granite-polishing plant of Thomas Mitchell, Center and Columbia streets, entailing a loss of $7,000 on building and machinery and $1,000 on granite.

The firemen made a quick response, but long before they got to the fire the roof had fallen in and the flames were threatening the plants of Birnie & Dick, Columbia granite works, Thomas Melton and Collins & Sons, all situated so close that some of the sheds adjacent.

Chief Littlefield ordered four hydrant streams and lines from engine 1, and attacked the burning plant from all sides. The firemen succeeded in saving all the adjoining property as well as the office building of the Mitchell Polishing works. Chief Littlefield said the fire probably caught in the boiler room.

GOV. MEAD'S CREAMERY BURNS.

Other Buildings on Mead Farm Saved
Yesterday Afternoon.

Rutland, May 13.—The creamery used in connection with the farm of Gov. Mead, south of the city, was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon, and for a while it looked as though the house and other buildings would be burned. Flames from the creamery spread to the house and the horse barn, and at one time sparks from the creamery set fire to the roof of the cow barn.

The origin of the fire is not known, but it is believed to have been caused by a defective chimney. The steamer from station No. 1 and hose from station No. 2 responded to a telephone alarm, but on account of the distance from the city, the firemen were unable to save the creamery and devoted their attention to other buildings. The loss will amount to about $1,000.

WORKING FOR CLARK
IN VERMONT TOWNSMassachusetts Congressman Declares That Little Democratic Talk Is Heard in Vermont, Though Nothing Is Said
Against Speaker of the House.

Rutland, May 13.—Congressman James M. Curley, representative from the 10th Massachusetts district, was in Rutland yesterday in the interest of the campaign for the presidency of Speaker Champ Clark. He was accompanied by George H. Sheehan of Boston, a native figure in the Ancient Order of Fibberians, and while in this city he was in conference with local officials of the society but he did not last night that any work was being done directly through the order to further Champ Clark's interests.

Congressman Curley was very enthusiastic over the presidential chances of Speaker Clark. He said: "The work I am doing for Speaker Clark is purely from a personal standpoint. We have known each other for a long time and have always been the best of friends. I started out from Boston Thursday and since then have been traveling through Vermont and New Hampshire in his interests. In the tables thus far presented to the public, the eight delegates from New Hampshire are redited to Governor Wilson. In my talks with the prominent politicians of that state in the last two days I find just the reverse and there is practically no question but that Clark will get away with the eight delegates."

"How do you find the sentiment in this state," Congressman Curley was asked.

"Well to tell the truth, there is very little talk at just this time, but I have not heard a word in opposition to Clark. The state convention in Vermont is so late that the lineup will be practically decided."

Congressman Curley said that he would do no more work in Vermont for the present.

To this charge the respondent entered a plea of guilty to the offense, which plea was accepted by the court and he was sentenced to not less than nine months nor more than twelve months at hard labor in the county jail. CITY'S NIGGARDLINESS
MAY INDUCE CRIMEAsserted Counsel for Mrs. Minnie Willis,
Who Had Just Pleaded Guilty to Charge of Keeping Liquor—She Is Put on Probation.

Police headquarters showed much sympathy over Sunday, and it was only after the several respondents appeared before Judge H. W. Scott in city court this morning that the officers in charge of the station were able to put their house in order. In consequence of a raid and arrest at 106 River street Saturday night, Mrs. Minnie Willis and her little child, only a few months old, passed the Sabbath in confinement. Another member of the Willis household, Jack Stewart, who is said to be a star boarder at 106 River street, also stayed the weekend in a cell. Armed with a warrant issued by State's Attorney J. Ward Carter, officers went to the Willis house Saturday night and conducted a raid. There was a death of contraband goods in the place at the time, but other George Carle took Mrs. Willis and Stewart in custody on charges of keeping.

When arraigned before Judge Scott this morning Stewart entered a plea of not guilty. His case was continued for a week for hearing. Stewart was recently released from the county jail in Montpelier, where he had gained considerable fame in direct Vermont towns as a singing companion to Sheriff Frank Tracy's lectures on prison work and methods of reformation. The respondent was placed under bail of $500, which he was unable to furnish, and he will probably return to jail to await his hearing May 20.

Attorney S. Hollister Jackson appeared as counsel for Mrs. Willis, who entered a plea of guilty. In addressing the court, counsel for the respondent said that the present system of supplying the poor and dependent with the necessities of life was responsible for some of the illicit liquor traffic. While not gainsaying the right of the state to prosecute all such offenders, he believed that there was a certain moral justification when persons, ill-cared for by the city, resorted to this means of keeping body and soul united. The attorney made no effort to criticize any of the city officials in the poor department, but said that niggardliness toward the needy was an offense common to more than one Vermont community. He believed also that landlords were sometimes at fault.

After reviewing the case, Judge Scott decided that sentence should be suspended for three months, while the respondent would be allowed to go on her own recognizance. He instructed her, however, to discharge her boarder in the person of Stewart, saying that the court's leniency rested with her obedience. Mrs. Willis decided that she preferred to send Stewart away to going to jail and leaving her baby, which she fondly handled as she replied to the judge's questions.

Thomas Sexton appeared before the court and pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication, second offense. He was fined $15 and costs of $6.39, which he paid. Sexton was arrested Saturday night by Deputy Sheriff George Morris.

Edward Smith, who told the court that he came from Swanton, entered a plea of guilty to a first offense of intoxication, and he was fined $5 and costs of $6.50. The sum total of Smith's ready assets would not cover the fine and costs, and an officer took him to the county jail in Montpelier to serve the alternate sentence of 20 days. Smith was arrested at the Central Vermont station Saturday night by officer Harry Gamble.

STREET CAR DERAILED.

Was on Early Morning Trip and Carried
No Passengers.

Car No. 20 of the Barre & Montpelier Traction line went off the rails near Jerue's crossing on its first trip to Barre this morning shortly after leaving Montpelier at 8 o'clock. The car was in charge of Motorman Jerue and Conductor Somerville, and contained no passengers. Neither of the two occupants was injured. The derailment occurred at a point nearly opposite the crossing and it was several hours before the crew from the car barn could remedy the trouble. The service over the line was interrupted for a time, but all cars resumed running on schedule time by the middle of the forenoon.

A full rehearsal for the cantata, "David, the Shepherd Boy," will be held to-night at 7 o'clock. Parents are requested to see that the children taking part in the cantata are asked to appear in costume.

PREACHED TO CLAN GORDON.

Rev. Duncan Salmond of Presbyterian Church, Himself a Clanman.

Nearly 100 members of Clan Gordon, No. 12, O. S. C., attended their annual memorial service at the Presbyterian church yesterday morning. The pastor, Rev. Duncan Salmond, chose as a subject for his discourse, "Impression and Expression." After words of welcome to the clan, of which he is a member, Rev. Mr. Salmond read the text for his sermon. The text is taken from the book of Matthew, chapter 22, verses 37-39, which read as follows: "Jesus said unto him, Thou shalt love the Lord, thy God, with all thy heart, with all thy soul, and with all thy strength. This is the first and great commandment. The second is like unto the first. Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

The speaker said: "The occasion that prompted our Lord to these words came as an answer to a doctor of the Jewish law, who, with a group of Pharisees, was trying the Lord and who had inquired of Him which of the laws was the greatest. All other laws are imbedded upon the substance of these two principles of justice. Many will ask what is Christian religion and say, Is it not sufficient to fulfill the duties and obligations to mankind? No; it is necessary that man love God; it is the first duty of man; it is the primitive and imperative duty of mankind."

"As the true conception of religion is moulded from these great commandments, religious life of a person is the expression of the laws, it is imperative that man should conform to these principles, although the will of man does not always comply with such. Violation of God's word will always bring suffering, not only to the transgressors, but upon others. To conform with these laws should be very pleasing, when one considers the great and infinite love of God for man. Why should not the love of God by man and the love of man for God be infinitely greater than the love of man for man as shown in times of sickness?"

"A few pretenders consider religion as fit only for babes and women, and that it is not for strong men. Their contention is weakened if one would only reflect that the best of man's faculties must be exercised to love God, and it is only a coward that will forsake Him and only a strong man that will love God. It is also a man's duty to use his faculties and obtain the love of God and best results therefrom."

"In order to bear a true conception of the Lord and his commandments, it is necessary to have a clear comprehension of Him, as the impression always regulates the expression, which is the outward sign of our impressions. The two great commandments, love of God and love of man, are inseparable. Amongst our neighbors will be ranked not only immediate members of our family, not only fellow workmen, but our enemies; therefore, we must love our neighbors as ourselves, and it is imperative that we should in order to obtain the kingdom of heaven. In his right mind, no person would ruin his life or reputation; therefore, it is expedient, in conformity to the mentioned commandments, that he ruin not the reputation or the life of his neighbor."

"A man of learning once, in passing the home of a well-known man in religious life, stopped and in the course of conversation inquired of the theologian what he judged to be the rule or rule by which one could live a perfect life. His answer to that was to live in conformity with the two great laws of God and he would find no difficulty in leading a perfect life. After the impression of God has been imprinted on our souls, it is our duty to wait this divine impression among fellowmen through the medium of expression, which is the religious life we follow."

GIRL KILLED
INSTANTLYYvette Bertrand Hit by a Falling Hay Rack at Her Home

AND HER NECK WAS BROKEN

Besides That, Her Skull Was Crushed and
She Sustained Internal Injuries—
Leo Bertrand, Father, Was Near by at Time of Accident.

Death came suddenly to Yvette Bertrand, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bertrand, who live on the Bailey farm, so called, on Prospect street, yesterday forenoon, when the child was crushed to death by a hay rack which her father had stood on in the barn. Immediately after the accident occurred, Mr. F. E. Duffy was called, but the little one died before his arrival, and his examination showed that death must have ensued instantly.

It was shortly after 10:30 o'clock when Mr. Bertrand, accompanied by his little daughter, went to the barn to feed the stock. Only a few days prior to Sunday, the farmer had disposed of a quantity of hay in the bay above. The rack bed in conveying the hay away from the farm had been left on the barn floor in front of the stanchion, Mr. Bertrand desired to feed the cows, and as the rack stood directly in the path leading from the cows to the hay mow, he stood the cumbersome affair upon its end alongside the barn wall. As he started around back of the rack to secure it with a rope, the child followed him, and it is believed that she must have grasped the same and pulled it sufficiently to bring the balance away from the wall. It fell with a heavy crash, and when the father turned around, his daughter was lying on the floor with blood flowing from a deep wound in the head. She gave a few gasps for breath and expired.

Mr. Bertrand took the body of the child into the house and summoned a physician. When Doctor Duffy arrived, he found that the girl had sustained a broken neck, a crushed skull and internal injuries. He thought that she must have lost consciousness at once, and said that life could have lasted but a few moments at the longest after the blow.

The child would have been three years old next October. She leaves besides her parents one sister and four brothers. Mr. Bertrand purchased the farm in December, 1910. The funeral was held from the house this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. P. M. McKenna, pastor of St. Monica's church, officiating. The burial took place in the Catholic cemetery on Beckley street.

Besides his wife, he leaves six children, five sons and one daughter, as follows: Leo, Emelio, Louis, Giacomo, Mario and Nina, all of whom live in Barre. Mr. Ferrari was born in Vogogna, Italy, over 40 years ago. He had been twenty years in Barre and was married to Mrs. Ferrari shortly after leaving his native country. Mr. Ferrari was one of the better known men of the Italian colony and was an active figure in the Mutual Benevolent society. He was a stonecutter by trade and had been employed in several different sheds about the city, among them that of Marr & Gordon, where he only recently completed a long term of service.

The funeral will be held at the house Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The burial will take place in Hope cemetery. It is expected that members of the Italian Mutual Benevolent society will
